QUESTION 4

Your client has created a prerequisite that requires a student to pass a lower-level course before enrolling in the next level course (that is, English 101 before English 102). When students who are currently enrolled in the lower-level course try to enroll in the next level course, they receive an error in Self Service that they have not met the established prerequisite for that class.

Which two actions should you take to allow students to enroll in the next level course while they are currently enrolled in the prerequisite, and still excluding students who do not pass?

- A. Temporarily remove the prerequisite from the course.
- B. Assign students in the lower-level course to a Student Group and collectively enroll students who pass after grades have been assigned.
- C. On the Requirement Group page, deselect the Exclude in Progress Credit check box.
- D. Enroll students who pass in the upper-level course by using Block Enroll.
- E. After grades have been posted, run the Post Enrollment Requirement Checking (PERC) process to drop students who did not pass the prerequisite course.

Correct Answer: E
