QUESTION 1

A client is concerned about their x86 database I/O response time. Further analysis reveals significant I/O wait delay.

How is the IBM Z architecture better equipped than the x86 architecture to address this specific issue?

A. It leverages the VRIO (Vector I/O) to control I/O wait.

B. It leverages the I/O subsystem to manager I/O wait.

C. It leverages the VIO (Virtual I/O) to eliminate I/O wait.

D. It leverages zIIP processors to speed-up I/O wait.

Correct Answer: C

QUESTION 2

A customer starts using z/OS Encryption Readiness Technology (zERT) to gather knowledge about the state of encrypted network traffic in their system. They also use Sysplex Distributor, so there is TLS-encrypted traffic routed through the distributor systems to application hosts. The distributor systems also host TLS-encrypted TN3270 services for the network.

They started gathering data from the Sysplex Distributor hosts, since encrypted traffic is routed through those systems. A large number of encrypted TCP sessions seem to be missing from the customer\\'s analysis.

What does the customer need to do to gather full analysis data?

A. Start gathering zERT data on all z/OS systems in their environment.

B. Configure the zERT collection correctly on the Sysplex Distributor hosts.

C. Move the collection of data to the z/OS application data hosts.

D. Move the collection of data to the network routers neighboring the z/OS systems.

Correct Answer: D
