QUESTION 1

If a patient makes his/her condition worse by ignoring medical advice, that may be considered _____.

- A. Patient negligence
- B. Contributory negligence
- C. Patient malpractice
- D. Secondary malpractice

Correct Answer: B

When a patient ignores medical advice, for example does not take prescribed drugs, and so makes his/her condition worse, that may be considered contributory negligence. This means some responsibility for the deterioration lies with the patient, and may count in favor of a medical practitioner in a lawsuit.
